If you have been to the Isle of Wight, you know what a special place it is. Whether visiting as a holiday-maker, sailor, cyclist, hiker or festival-goer, you have come to appreciate its relaxed pace, friendly welcome and beautiful landscapes. The island's unique character and charm lie in its stunning scenery and tranquillity - all within easy reach for a great day out with friends and colleagues as you experience the very best the island has to offer.

Isle of Wight photo workshops give you a full day to get away from it all and concentrate on learning in an idyllic setting. The island is blessed with many unique and historic churches. In fact, some were mentioned in the Domesday Book, and a few could date back to the last two decades of the 7th century when the Island was converted to Christianity. There is even a church with a thatched roof, wooden bell-turret and apse by the architect Isaac Jones.

My aim is to get you about, assist you in capturing interesting HDR image sets, and help you hone your skills receiving as much, or as little, training as you like. The day is yours to enjoy as you learn, capture great shots and have fun learning my processing technique. I cater to all skill levels, from beginner to advanced, so everyone can benefit from the workshop.

Your day begins when we greet you at your port of entry - in Ryde (from Portsmouth), Cowes (from Southampton) or Yarmouth (from Lymington). The workshop begins the moment you arrive. We head off to find a couple of great churches or scenic locations, making the most of your time, light direction and beautiful church interiors. Lunch is normally eaten in Newport and, if we have time, we can also photograph in Newport Minster which is the principal church of the Isle of Wight.

After lunch we have a room reserved at Quay Arts Centre, a converted 19th-Century brewery warehouse complex at the head of the River Medina in Newport. There we will use a laptop and digital projector to process at least one each of your own image sets.

We finish the day's workshop when you feel you're done - usually 8 to 10 hours after you arrive. The hours are completely flexible: come early to photograph more churches, or come mid-morning and stay on for an extended processing session. At the end of your trip, we'll make sure you get back in time for your journey home.
