If you have been to the Isle of Wight, you know what a special place it is. Whether visiting as a holiday-maker, sailor, cyclist, hiker or festival-goer, you have come to appreciate its relaxed pace, friendly welcome and beautiful landscapes. The island's unique character and charm lie in its stunning scenery and tranquility - all within easy reach for a great time out with friends and colleagues as you experience the very best the island has to offer.

Isle of Wight photo workshops give you a full week to experience the island's coastal magic plus its inland landscapes with rural idyll. Nearly half of the Isle of Wight is designated as an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, including over 50 miles of Heritage Coast, both part of the national family of protected landscapes recognised for their special qualities and character. It's your tour, so you decide where to go and how long to stay. We are very happy to guide with suggestions and a wide range of choices aligned with your interests.

The Isle of Wight is officially the sunniest place in the whole of Britain and with 60 miles of coastline in a small package it provides just endless photographic opportunities. Our aim is to get you about, suggest good angles and interesting subjects, and help you hone your skills receiving as much, or as little, training as you like. The days are yours to enjoy as you learn, capture great shots and have fun bringing home high-quality images. We cater to all skill levels, from beginner to advanced, so everyone can benefit from the workshop experience. Take your photography to a whole new level.

Your week begins when we greet you at your port of entry - in Ryde (from Portsmouth), Cowes (from Southampton) or Yarmouth (from Lymington). The tour begins the moment you arrive. We head in the direction that suits the kind of photography you would like to do, making the most of your time, light direction and scenic spots. We finish when you feel you're done - usually just after sunset. The hours are completely flexible: go out early and shoot sunrise, or come out mid-morning and stay on for sunset, there is also plenty of time for a spot of night photography (the island has a Dark Sky area). Have some free time when the weather or light is at its poorest. At the end of your photo tour, we'll make sure you get back in plenty of time for your journey home.

Isle of Wight photo workshops are for small groups, ideally two or three individuals per group to ensure lots of individual attention. A group of four can be easily accommodated as well.

Individuals per group	From: per person per week
1	£1600
2 or 3	£1400

This is an all-inclusive week which includes training, transportation, food and lodging. You are responsible for your own transportation to an island port. The workshop starts and ends on the same day of the week, a full 7 nights' accommodation. Workshop can be scheduled to start on a weekend or weekday. There is a discount for two participants sharing a room.

You can organise a group of your own and set the date, or join a group with others, based on your availability and preferences. Options will be discussed and dates confirmed with you.
